

About our Aesthetic & Skin Integrity Services

Calamvale Family Practice provides comprehensive medical consultations and skin care services tailored to both men and women. Our dedicated skin services were established in 2013, and we have since expanded our clinical offerings to support diverse patient needs in skin health and aesthetic medicine.

All consultations and interventional procedures at our clinic are delivered by a qualified medical practitioner with advanced training and practical clinical experience in skin assessments and treatments.

We utilise professional-grade materials and TGA-registered equipment designed to maintain a high standard of patient care and safety. Our practice is focused on providing structured, evidence-informed care within a transparent, clinical framework. All non-surgical procedures are subject to strict clinical eligibility criteria evaluated during an initial diagnostic consultation.

Treatments We Offer

Aesthetic & Skin Integrity Services

Our clinic provides personalised professional medical consultations to evaluate your skin health and discuss structural facial harmony. During your assessment, a qualified general practitioner will review your medical history, examine skin quality, and outline clinical options appropriate for your long-term aesthetic goals.

Skin Needling Consultations & Procedures / Collagen Induction Therapy

Our clinic offers evidence-informed skin needling and collagen induction procedures performed by qualified medical practitioners. This clinical technique involves moving a specialised, TGA-registered micro-needling device across targeted areas to stimulate the skin's natural repair pathways. Skin needling can assist in improving overall skin quality and tone. A dedicated dermatological consultation is required prior to treatment to evaluate your skin health and discuss individual outcomes.

Treatments We Offer

Evidence-Informed Hair Retention Consultations

Hair thinning and loss can stem from various underlying medical, metabolic, or genetic factors. Our medical practitioners conduct thorough diagnostic evaluations to determine the root cause of your concerns. We provide comprehensive clinical guidance regarding evidence-based therapeutic pathways and localised clinical procedures aimed at supporting scalp health and hair density.

Photodynamic Therapy

Photodynamic Therapy (PDT) is a localised clinical procedure utilising a topical photosensitising agent combined with a specialised light source. This therapeutic approach is used primarily to target sun-damaged cells and pre-cancerous skin lesions, such as actinic keratoses (sunspots).

A comprehensive professional skin examination is required to determine whether a PDT clinical treatment pathway is appropriate for your skin health profile.

Topical & Micro-Surgical Skin Therapies

We offer a range of clinically supervised, non-surgical skin procedures designed to target skin texture, surface scarring, and overall skin rejuvenation. These procedural treatments utilise advanced clinical instruments to stimulate localised tissue renewal frameworks. All structural skin procedures are subject to strict clinical eligibility criteria evaluated during an initial diagnostic consultation.
